About

Communicative design is both my vocation and my passion. I enjoy learning as well as creating and I strive to improve my knowledge and skills daily.

A solid typographic understanding, a definite grasp of all things Adobe, and a good understanding of print and screen design, mean I can design fluidly across most mediums. I also have a good grasp of HTML and CSS and I'm learning to model in 3D.

I'm coming to the end of paternity leave at the moment and I'm looking for full-time employment, preferably in the field of UI design or web design.

In my spare I enjoy reading, spending time with my wife and new son, gaming and creating custom game content, working as the Art Director for lovefre.sh, a social food platform and working with the team at playstuff.net to run a gaming community.

Thanks for reading.
